

Name:

Date:

Class:

Essay Final Draft Rubric and Guidelines

FINAL DRAFT DUE THURSDAY, MARCH 17TH

Directions: Please read through the guidelines for the final draft for your Kids' Book or Effective Parenting Essay. The guidelines reflect the strategies we have discussed to make a strong essay, as well as the expectations for responding to the original prompt. For your final draft, you should:

- Write an introduction to your essay that gets the reader interested in the essay and gives them a glimpse of what the essay will be about by answering and explaining the questions from the outline.
- Write two body paragraphs; each one should go in-depth on one of the major ideas of the essay (i.e. one focuses on Mama and the other on Atticus, or one focuses on The Sneetches and the other on Freedom Summer). Those paragraphs should include:
 - Two pieces of evidence (i.e. specific quotes from the texts)
 - Tell-me-more sentences to explain how the evidence connects to the main idea of the paragraph and your argument
 - Conclusion sentences to wrap up the idea of each paragraph
- A conclusion paragraph that identifies your preference between the books/parents and/or wraps up your ideas from the essay
- You answer the question from the prompt accurately and fully
- Your ideas are organized clearly and are easy to understand
- You use correct grammar, mechanics, and spelling (including using quotes correctly)
- Engaging title (i.e. not "Parenting Essay" or "Sneetches vs. Freedom Summer")
- Type the draft: size 12 font; Times New Roman, Calibri, Cambria, Arial Fonts; double-spaced; heading with name/date/class.

RUBRIC FOR FINAL DRAFT

	Excellent	Good	Needs Improvement	Needs a lot of improvement or is missing
You wrote a proper and engaging introduction	4	3.5	3	2 (or lower)
You begin each body paragraph with a clear topic sentence that relates to your overall argument and indicates the main idea of the paragraph to the reader.	4	3.5	3	2 (or lower)
You included two pieces of specific, relevant evidence (i.e. quotes from the texts) in each body paragraph (four quotes total) to back up your arguments	8	7	6	5 (or lower)
You explained each piece of evidence clearly and thoroughly using tell-me-more sentences	8	7	6	5 (or lower)
You wrapped up the main idea in each body paragraph with a conclusion sentence	2	1.5	1	0
Your conclusion answers the question of which parent or book is more effective, based on the prompt and/or wraps up the ideas discussed in the essay	4	3	2.5	2 (or lower)
You organized the essay in a logical way, using the structures we have discussed in class to create a clear, coherent draft	6	5	4	3 (or lower)
You answered all parts of the prompt thoroughly and completely	6	5	4	3 (or lower)
You completed the essay with few, if any, grammar, spelling, or mechanical mistakes -- including the use of the first or second person in your writing.	6	5	4.5	3 (or lower)
You included an interesting title	2	1.5	1	0

Points lost for lateness, incorrect formatting, or other reasons? _____

Extra credit for printing it off on time? _____

Total: _____/50 points